Wife of the Anarchist Nache. CHEAGO, March 14 -- It is estimated that between twenty thousand and thirty thousand people turned out yesterday to witness the demonstration at the funeral of Mrs. Oscar Norbe, wife of the con-demned anarchan. No disturbance of moy kind occurred, and the proceedings were devoid of anything sensational. Funeral services were held at Mueller's Hall, at the corner of North avenue and Sedgewick street, and around the hall thousands of people stood for hours waiting patiently to witness the funeral procession. Within the hall stood the coffin containing the remains of Mrs. Neebe surrounded by a bower of beautiful flowers and plants. The face of the dead woman frozed calm and peaceful. The hall was alaborately draped in mourning and had a striking effect. From early in the morning confit one o'clock hundreds of people crowded into the hall to gaze at the remains, and at times the rush was very great, and the noise and confusion almost intolerable. The funeral services began with a readiparted apostle of inporality in religion.

The following letter of regret was read from Rev. Dr. McOlynn, who had been tion of one of Goethe's songs by a male chorus, and then George Schilling made an address, in which he spoke of Mrs. from Rev. Dr. McOlynn. who had been havited to be present:

Rev. AND DEAR MR. HARDIDAY: I regret very much that I can not. In compliance with your courteous request, be present this evening at the meeting in Plymouth Church to honor the tierneys of the great paster and to condole for the irreparable toss. I must therefore content myself with saying briefly in a letter what I should have been a sign of the dawning of a better day for which the world has so long yourned. Ngebe as a wife and mother in effective and eloquent terms. The Franz Abt quartetto sang a hymn. Resolutions of condutence were read, and then Paul frottkan delivered a spesch in German. He said, in substance, that Mrs. Neebe had died of a broken heart-a victim of the cruelty of society, leaving behind those who are persecuted with a brutality that has no parallel in lustory. Mr. Grottkan, continuing, said:

"Our hour has not yet come. Still my duty and my consumence makes it impera-tive that I lift my voice to acruse that socrety whose victim she on the bier before us is. From this bier a call shall go forth to the powerful and the rich, cautoning to antagonistic to yours, Forement is no way of historing the coming of the better day was the great man whose death we mourn and for whose work we give thanks. None other so well as he taught the mon of his land and time to exhit the essentials of religion pure and undefined in which we all agree, and to minimize the content of the c them as to the fruitage of their own storm seed." After a song by the Solialistic male chorus, resolutions were adopted to the effect that the people here assembled pledged themselves to employ all bonorable means to restore Oscar Neebe to his children, a free man; fulling in this, to hold themselves responsible for the proper training and education of his children. A number of letters of condcience from la tege was composed of various Socialist and trade organizations of Chicago, in full rogatia, and with banners covered with ccape, besides animerous people in carringes and on foot. Water. gave warning of approaching danger to intruding vessels. This defect will be remedied this year.

Referring to the possibility of an arrangement being arrived at by which the fishery troubles might be definitely settled, Captain Scott said that if no settlement was reached he hoped that vessels belonging to the American navy would be sent to the fishing grounds, as in 1870, when their presence there and warnings to their own fishermen not to go beyond their treaty rights, went a long way to-ward maintaining a strict observance of these rights. There has been no change in the instructions to be issued to commanders of cruisers this year from those ssued last season, although commander will be specially enjoined to carry their protective services in a spirit of fairness and strict observance of the treaty rights and strict coservance in the toury figure of the American fishermen.

being made for carrying out the protective service for the coming season, he said that it was impossible for the Dominion Government to take any other course than that now being followed. to that given by officer O'Neill of the

Found His Long Lost Mother. CINCINNATI, March 14.—The Charley Ross abduction case has found a parallel in this city with a much more gratifying sequel. A few days ago a story was pub-lished here that Frank Morey, a man forty-two years of age, living in Owen County, Ky., had been told by his foster-father that he (Morey) had been kidnaped when ten years of age, but could not tell who his parents were, or where they lived. Morey has been looking for his long lost relatives for years, and the account of his remarkable history was published here a few days ago and attracted general attention.
Among those who saw it was Mrs. Harriet

Williams, a poor but respectable widov who lives on Stone street in the Twenty-first Ward. Her son was stolen when a lad ten years old, and she had never heard of him again. With a trembling and eager hand she addressed a letter to Morey, at Coal City, asking him to call and see her, which he did Saturday morning. They were only together a few minutes when the joyful discovery was made, Morey's real name is James Edward Williams. He is married and has several interesting children, and is the happiest man in Christendom to-day. The heartless companions of his younger days had twitted him upon being an illegitimate offspring of an unholy love and he could not rest A Canadian View of the Fisheries

Question. Boston, March 14.—An Ottawa special to the Herald says: "It is thought in official circles that no legislation will be necessary during the approaching session of Parliament on the lisheries question, the assent of the Imperial Hovernment having been given to the bill passed at the last It is considered that this will meet all the requirements of the case. In order, however, to meet any difficulty which may arise from the enforcement of the Retaliatory bill passed by the Amer-ican Congress, Partiament may be asked to make a provision that the Attorney General in Council may doal with any emergency. As usual, on the approach of a new session, there is a large crop of applications from manufacturers asking for alterations in the tariff to suit the requirements of their special lines of busi ness. It is questionable, however, whether the Government will permit of much further tinkering of the tariff, as the tendency of the numerous changes is to FRILADRIPHIA, March 14.—Obadiah tendency of the numerous changes is to Wheelock, a wealthy and occentric bache-treate a feeling of unrest in the mer-

Minister Manning to be Recalled. Chicken, March 13.-A special to the Tmes from Washington says Manning is to be recalled—that is, he will be allowed quietly to resign. His name was sent to the Senate for confirmation on the very last of the thirty days within which recess nominations have to go to the Senate, and only a day or two before this it was known that the President had decided not to send in his name. The rourse the President pursued saved Mr. Manning's self-respect, and he can now resign without attracting unfavorable attention.

The reasons why the President was disposed to make a change in the Mexicar legation last winter have been reinforced more recently. Mr. T. B. Connery cam here with strong indorsements for the office of Minister to Turkey. He accepted the very small place of Secretary of Legation in Mexico. There are surmises hat he was led to accept the humble po sition of secretary by the suggestion that the office of minister was to be vacated soon, and that he would be appointed to succeed Minister Manning." Sunday Constables Westsel and Carter were called to the home of Mrs. Levi Nule, near the St. Louis bridge, to arrest four burns who had been making a raisance of themselves. They had been hanging around the neighborhood, begging and loating. They compelled Mrs. Nale, who is a very old lady, to get up in the night and supply them with matches The bunns were brought before Justice Curtis this morning on a charge of vagrancy. Each was given 60 days' work on the chain gang, and all went to jail. Their names are Charles Sheppard, of Decatur, and George Harmon, W. J. Fox, and John Brown, who hall from Mexico,

THE Wabash will make a good move for the business interests of Decatur. Next Monday the run of the Jacksonville accommodation will be changed to start from Monticello at 6 a. m., going through to Jacksonville, returning to Montireilo in the evening. This is a sensible change and will bring the merchants all day trade from Monticello, Bement and intervening points.

An Old Timer.

John Williams, who has been a resident of Decatur 48 years, is to-day announced as a Commissioner of Highways, subject to the Republican Convention. Mr. Williams is a practical man, has been a Republican ever since the birth of the party, has the benefit of experience as a contractor on the St. Louis & Vandalia railroad, and as overseer of highways in his district, and has seen the City of Decatur grow from the smallest sort of village. and all was recovered except about $2.50 | He bought, and laid out one of the early additions to the city, and has done much to foster and encourage the best interests of the place.

The audience room of the Universalist church Saturday night was filled with members and friends of the congregation assembled to give Rev. S. F. Gibb and Rev. Sophic Gibb a surprise in honor of their 25th marriage anniversary. The surprise, which was complete, was arranged by Mrs. Dr. Cass Chenoweth. The couple had been invited to the church to put a store building on the lot.

Then the choir ren dered a very beautiful chant, "Come unto me." Rev. Coultas read a brief obituary. which stated, among other things, that Mr. Montgomery had lived in Macon county for thirty years, and had been a member of the Methodist church for thirty years. He followed the reading with a brief address, stating that while he could not claim to be intimately acquaintainted with Mr. Montgomery, as bis large congregation would not permit his becoming intimately acquainted with very many, yet he felt quite well acquainted with him. From his first acquaintance he had regarded Mr. Montgomery as a man of marked characteristics, and among ed that he was a man of honor, conscien tionsness, earnestness and literary tuste.

Rev. DAILY REPUBLICAN.

AS WE GROW OLDER. The leaves may fall on the autumn wind But they never can fade away. For the blood-red leaf of October Is more grand than the verdant of May

The blossoms of spring time bear promise and hope To the heart that is happy in youth, But the golden sheat and the crimson leaf Tell the grander story of Truth

They prove that the past was worth living-its promise and hope not in vain. The promise of spring-time is richly faifilled in the red leaf and rich golden grain.

To my mind this thought brings a couplet I read in a poem one day—
"Will you love me, then, 'mid the falling As you did 'mid the bloom of May?"

Is hopeful and happy and bright,
'Twill truer and firmer and happier be
In life's waning, yet rich, golden light.

Youth's love, like the promise of spring-time,

As I love the dear lock of bonny brown hair With a love that can no'er fade away— With the same true love—yet hallowed 1 will love the dear locks of gray.

thing I entered with a number of others, and obtained a place as near as I could to another lunging of green baize at the further end of the shop, for I imagined that behind this must be concealed some of the wonders so graphically painted on the canvas outside. The place having become full, the green baize was drawn aside, and a young man with a very East-end look handed out a short, fat, ugly, greasy-looking woman of about four feet in height, but weighing, I should think, about eighteen tone. She was dressed in a showy. tawdry material, covered with elaborate trimmings equally tawdry, and seemed pleased with the amount of attention she precived. When the Eastand young man had finished a minute account of her height, weight, age, measurements, etc., members of the crowd were requested to "shake 'ands with the fat lady;" and an intimation was given that should any of the audience, in the performance of this act of friendly greeting, pass any coin of the realm from their own into the lady's palm, why well, the fat lady would

STREET POLITENESS.

An Essay Toward Proving That Manners should Make Women as Well as Men.
The ladies of this city are rapidly learning to keep to the right on mudd rossings, and are also adopting other simple courtesies which are putting them to the front as the handsomest and best of the sisterhood in America, but occasionally an obstinate, strongminded, contrary specimen is encountered, who will persist in ambling to the left, or doing some other equally inconsistent and unnecessary act. A gentleman who has traveled extensively in Europe remarked to a reporter, while discussing some of the characteristics of the gentler sex, that the mea of America are largely to blame for the disposition of some of the fair creatures to take this surrender of every thing as a matter of comse, for they have so long treated them with such gallantry that many have been educated into regarding as a right what is simply a courtesy. In Paris or Vienna, for instance, if a street car be crowded with males, and a lady should enter, not one of them would venture to offer a seat, and the lady herself would not expect it. The women there have never been taught that they had any more rights than a man, and for that reason, if an American should extend a courtesy he is accustomed to at home, he would be stared at as an Anak, and even the lady herself would be tempted to regard it as importinent. And then he said that the ungallantries to the ladies to be met with across the Continent were sufficient to keep an American's blood although the ladies sometimes invited it by the matter-of-fact way in which they pre-empted every thing in the line of accommodation to which their fancy It was Florence Marryat who once wrote that Americans excelled all nathat the American ladies were the most unmannerly; but she awarded the palm of boorishness to the men of her own nationality, which is English. Is New York, and even in cultivated Boston, a charlish treatment of ladies in a public conveyance is beginning to make itself felt, and in the former city the Sun succeingly speaks of an incident on a car, where a gentleman surrendered his seat as a "lost art." average American, however, whether rich or lowly. is proud of a chance to

It seems like a little thing to keep to Local consumers and infliers a ber bushel for wheat, and so to the right on a muddy crossing, but there | per bu are many badies walking abreast who sage, and coolly appropriate it as they would a seat in a car. There are men, too, who do this thing, but as a general thing they do it at the risk of being ! mushed to one side, for they know that while the average man will take a good deal off a woman he will stand no foolisliness from one of his own sex, and will elbow him into the mud without the slightest compane tion of conscience if he neglected to obey the common law of keeping to the right.
